Introduction

“The beginning of the gospel of Jesus Christ, the Son of God...”

So begins the Gospel according to Mark, the shortest of the four gospels, likely the first one written. It is often overlooked because of the gospels of Matthew and Luke. Yet the Believer’s Bible Commentary notes that because of its brevity, Mark’s gospel is an ideal introduction to the Christian faith. In mission fields it is often the first book translated into a new language.

Who was Mark? What makes his gospel unique? Let’s start with the...

Author

The early and unanimous opinion is that John Mark wrote this gospel. His mother was Mary, who had a large house in Jerusalem (Ac 12:12). Some speculate the Last Supper took place in her home (Robertson’s Word Pictures), also that Mark may have been the young man who fled naked (Mk 14:51-52). His cousin was Barnabas, a Levite from Cyprus (Ac 4:36-37; Col 4:10).

Mark traveled with Paul and Barnabas on their first missionary journey, but turned back (Ac 13:5,13). This caused trouble between Paul and Barnabas (Ac 15:36-41), though he later became a fellow laborer and comfort to Paul (Phm 1:24; Col 4:10-11). In Paul’s final words, he wrote that Mark proved “useful to me for ministry” (2Ti 4:11).

Mark also accompanied Peter, who called him “his son” (his convert?) and who was in “Babylon” (Rome?) at the time (1Pe 5:13). Traditions outside the Bible state that Mark was an interpreter for Peter (Papias, 130 A.D.), and that Mark composed his gospel mostly from Peter’s memoirs (Justin Martyr, 150 A.D.).

Date

According to tradition, Mark went to Alexandria in Egypt where he died in 64 A.D. Barnes suggests the book was written between 56 and 63 A.D., and other scholars date the book in the early 50’s. A plausible date would be 57-59 A.D. (Bible Knowledge Commentary).

Theme

Mark’s gospel was evidently written to Gentiles, perhaps Christians in Rome (BKC); note the following:

- Jewish customs are explained - Mk 7:3-4
- Aramaic expresses are translated into Greek - Mk 3:17; 5:41; 7:11
- Roman reckoning of time is used - Mk 6:48; 13:35
- Only Mark identifies Simon of Cyrene as the father of Rufus - Mk 15:21; Ro 16:13
- Few OT quotations are used

The focus appears to be on Jesus as the Perfect Servant (BBC). Mark emphasizes the deeds of the Lord more than His words (he records nineteen miracles, but only four parables), the deeds of one who “did not come to be served, but to serve” (Mk 10:45). Thus one could say that the theme of Mark's gospel is:

“Jesus, Servant of Man”

Special Characteristics

It is an early gospel. Probably the first gospel written. All but 31 verses are quoted in the other gospels, leading many to conclude that Matthew and Luke used Mark's gospel as source material.

It is a concise gospel. The shortest of the four gospels. Luke has 1151 verses, Matthew 1071, John 879, Mark 661. Mark's entire gospel can be read aloud in 1.5 hours.

It is a fast-paced gospel. Over 40 times he uses a word translated “straightway” or “immediately.” Two-thirds of the verses begin with “and”. The present tense is used frequently (e.g., they come...He says...He sends...).

It is a vivid gospel. Mark presents “lively little touches” not found in the other gospels (Hendriksen). “...he wrote with all the graphic distinctiveness and vividness of an eyewitness” (Erdman). It may have been Peter's reminiscences, or perhaps his own, that account for such details.

It is an evangelistic gospel. It opens with “The beginning of the gospel of Jesus Christ...”
(Mk 1:1), and closes with "Go into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature"
(Mk 16:15).

The Gospel Of Mark

Chapter One

Mark begins his gospel with the ministry of John the Baptist (1-8), followed by Jesus’ baptism by John and temptation by Satan (9-11). Jesus began his own ministry in Galilee, proclaiming the gospel of the kingdom of God (12-15). Selecting four fishermen to become His disciples (16-20), He went to Capernaum where He taught in the synagogue and cast out an unclean spirit (21-28). At the house of Simon (Peter) and Andrew, Jesus healed Peter’s mother-in-law, and after sunset healed many more (29-34). The next morning after spending time in prayer, Jesus started an itinerant ministry of preaching in the synagogues throughout Galilee, casting out demons and healing a leper (35-45).

- The concise, fast-paced nature of Mark's gospel
- The meaning of the phrase, “The time is fulfilled, kingdom of God is at hand”
- The purpose of the miracles of healing that Jesus performed

Chapter Three

Jesus healed on the Sabbath, giving rise to plots on His life and later accused of healing by the power of the devil (1-6, 22-30). His popularity with the multitude continued, and twelve apostles are appointed to preach and heal (7-19). Concern by friends and family gave Jesus opportunity to identify His true family as those who do the will of God (20-21, 31-35).

The Gospel Of Mark

Chapter Four

From a boat facing a great multitude on the shore of the Sea of Galilee Jesus taught many parables, such as the parable of The Soils (1-9). Privately, Jesus explained why He taught in parables (10-12), and then revealed the meaning of the parable of The Soils (13-20). Mark goes on to record several other parables: The Lamp (21-25), The Growing Seed (26-29), and The Mustard Seed (30-32). Jesus cautioned the masses to give heed to the parables, but only in private did He tell His disciple what they meant (9,23-25,33-34). At evening, as they crossed the Sea of Galilee, Jesus calmed the stormy winds and waves, much to the amazement of His disciples (35-41).

Points To Ponder

- The purpose and primary theme of the parables of Jesus
- The importance of listening when given opportunity to hear the Word
- The inverse relationship between fear and faith

Review Questions

   - The parable of The Soils - Mk 4:1-20

3) What exhortation did Jesus give after telling the parable? Why? (9,23-25)

   - Because many who heard Jesus were not really interested in truth

5) To whom did Jesus explain the parables? Where? (10,33-34)
   - To the twelve; in private

6) What was the main theme of the parables? (11, cf. Mt 13:11)
   - The mysteries of the kingdom of God

   - He calmed the wind and waves on the Sea of Galilee

8) To what did Jesus attribute the disciples’ fear of the storm? (40)
   - Their lack of faith
Chapter Five

After calming the storm, Jesus and His disciples disembarked on the coast of the Gadarenes (Gerasenes), located between the Jordan River and eastern shore of the Sea of Galilee (1). Jesus healed a man possessed and tormented by a legion of demons, only to be begged by the residents to leave. The man who was healed, however, went on to proclaim in Decapolis all that Jesus had done (2-20). Sailing over to the other side of the Sea, Jesus raised to life the daughter of Jairus, a ruler of the synagogue (21-24,35-43), along the way healing a woman who suffered a flow of blood for twelve years (25-34).

Points To Ponder

- The demons acknowledgement of Jesus as “Son of the Most High God”

   - Not to tell anyone about it; to give the young girl something to eat
Chapter Six

Jesus returned to His home of Nazareth to an unresponsive audience, but continued teaching in the surrounding villages (1-6). He then sent out the Twelve with power to exorcise demons and to heal, with a commission to preach repentance (7-13). About this time John the Baptist was imprisoned and beheaded by King Herod (14-29). Soon after the Twelve returned from their healing and preaching ministry, Jesus fed over 5000 people with five loaves and two fish (30-44). Sending His disciples to sail toward Bethsaida, Jesus prayed on a mountain and then walked on the sea to His disciples in their boat (45-52). After arriving at the land of Gennesaret, people brought their sick wherever He was. As many as touched Jesus were healed (53-56).

Chapter Seven

Religious leaders from Jerusalem took issue with Jesus’ disciples’ failure to observe certain traditions, which led Jesus to warn against the danger of traditions and what causes true moral defilement (1-23). After a quick trip to the region of Tyre and Sidon where He healed a Syro-Phoenician woman’s daughter (24-30), Jesus made His way through the region of Decapolis to the Sea of Galilee where He healed a deaf-mute (31-37).

   - “He has done all things well.”
Chapter Eight

Once again Jesus fed a large multitude, about 4000 with seven loaves. He then sailed to Dalmanutha (Magdala) on the western shore of the Sea of Galilee (1-10). Challenged by the Pharisees for a sign, Jesus refused and sailed with His disciples to the other side of the Sea. He used the disciples’ failure to bring sufficient bread to warn them about the leaven of the Pharisees and Herod, which they failed to understand (11-21). Arriving at Bethsaida (northeast of where the Jordan flows into the Sea), Jesus healed a blind man (22-26). Then near Caesarea Philippi, Jesus asked His disciples who people thought He was. When He asked the disciples who they themselves thought He was, Peter confessed Him to be the Christ (27-30). Jesus then foretold His death and resurrection, rebuking Peter after he had rebuked Jesus for saying such things (31-33). Jesus then called the people and His disciples to Himself, and spoke to them about the cost (and reward) of following Him (34-38).

Afterward Jesus healed a demon-possessed boy when His disciples were unable due to a lack of faith and prayer (14-29). Back in Galilee, Jesus once again predicted His death and resurrection (30-32). Upon arriving in Capernaum, Jesus taught the need for child-like humility (33-37), to beware of sectarianism (38-41), the danger of offenses to others and to self (42-48), the seasoning effect of fire and salt, concluding with a call to have peace with one another (49-50).

Chapter Ten

Arriving in Judea, Jesus is questioned by Pharisees on the subject of divorce (1-12). Little children were brought for Him to bless and Jesus did so over initial objections of His own disciples, teaching them the value of childlike reception of the kingdom of God (13-16). When a rich young ruler questioned Him concerning eternal life (17-22), He used the occasion to teach His disciples about riches in relation to the kingdom of God (23-31). For a third time (cf. Mk 8:31-33; 9:30-32) Jesus predicted His death and resurrection (32-34), then used a request by James and John to teach His apostles the value of servitude (35-45). The Gospel Of Mark

Chapter Eleven

Jesus started His Last Week with a triumphant entry into Jerusalem, a quick visit to the temple, returning to Bethany with the twelve (1-11). The next day returning to Jerusalem He cursed a barren fig tree (12-14), drove moneychangers from the temple, again leaving Jerusalem at evening (15-19). The third day the disciples observed the withered fig tree, and Jesus taught them the power of faith and importance of forgiving others in prayer (20-26). In the temple at Jerusalem, the chief priests, scribes, and elders challenged His authority. Jesus refused to say by what authority He did things when they refused to acknowledge the authority of John’s baptism (27-33).

Chapter Sixteen

On the first day of the week following His crucifixion, Mary Magdalene, Mary of James, and Salome arrive at the tomb to anoint Jesus, uncertain how the stone will be rolled away. But the large stone had been removed, and a young man in a long white robe declares Jesus risen and gives them instructions to tell the disciples to meet Jesus in Galilee (1-8).

When Jesus rose from the dead, He first appeared to Mary Magdalene but no one believed her (9-11). He later appeared to two disciples, but they were not believed either (12-13). When Jesus appeared to the eleven apostles, He rebuked their unbelief and hardness of heart, but then gave them the Great Commission to preach the gospel with the promise that signs would follow them (14-18). When Jesus ascended to heaven, He sat down at the right hand of God, and worked with His apostles through the accompanying signs (19-20).
